Your application for a training contract with Lester Aldridge

As expected, you will be asked a number of standard questions regarding how we can contact you and how you are getting on with the academic side of things, these answers should be fairly quick to complete.

We will also ask you to tell us a little about any law based and non-law based work experience of any kind, including the nature of the duties you carried out.

The About You questions on our application form are more detailed and may take a little more preparation time. We suggest a maximum word limit of approximately 250 words for these answers, but a clear and succinct answer is always well received.

These questions are as follows: (suggested maximum word count 250 each)

- Tell us about your outside interests, do include any travelling you have done or involvement with any charity or volunteer work?
- Why do you want to be a solicitor?
- What interests you about Lester Aldridge?
- What are you looking for from your training contract?
- What do you feel you can offer Lester Aldridge?
- What do you think you might find the most challenging part of being a solicitor?
- If you were able to create a new law, what would it be and why?

Think through your answers carefully and try to be make sure they are representative of you and your views. We are likely to ask you about your answers if you are invited to interview.

Make sure you check your application form through carefully for any typos etc. Being accurate is an important skill for a solicitor!

If you would like any additional support with your application, please do let us know. Get in touch by email to Training.Contract@LA-Law.com

We look forward to receiving your application, and thank you for the time you have invested in in applying to Lester Aldridge.